

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WELLTEK ACQUIRES CONTROLLING INTEREST OF ONLINE SOCIAL NETWORKING COMPANY, WELLCITY, INC.

Triggers Next Critical Growth Phase of WellTek's Long Term Business-Building Strategy

ORLANDO, FL – June 2, 2010 – WellTek, Inc. (OTCBB:WTKN), a global health, fitness and wellness company, today announced that it has acquired a 51% controlling interest in WellCity, Inc. Established in 2008 and based in Brentwood, Tennessee, WellCity has created a rich and highly experiential online social network that is destined to become a global web destination of choice for individuals seeking interactive and individualized health, wellness and fitness solutions, in addition to inspiration, real world perspective and peer connectivity.

Randy Lubinsky, Chairman and CEO of WellTek, noted, "WellCity represents an important tactical expansion initiative for WellTek, triggering the next critical growth phase of our Company's long term, business-building strategy. More specifically, WellCity provides us with an established social networking platform that can be best leveraged to attract and engage our target audiences – consumers, corporate wellness partners and healthcare professionals – all of whom can benefit from WellTek's growing portfolio of trusted health, fitness and wellness products and services."

Located on the Internet at www.WellCity.com, WellCity has created an online virtual community where health- and wellness-minded 'residents' can closely commune with one another; receive support, information and encouragement from a league of leading professional experts in the fields of behavioral science, nutrition, medicine and specialized healthcare; shop for health and wellness-oriented products and services; access the latest industry news and information; and even compete in employer-sponsored wellness challenges pursuant to WellCity's proprietary 90-Day Wellness Challenge™ currently being implemented by corporations, public school systems and city and state government agencies throughout the U.S.

WellCity has built a proven, entrepreneurial team of business, sales, marketing, healthcare and technology professionals, led by the Company's President Robert Bellamy. Commenting on the merger with WellTek, Bellamy stated, "The advent of online social networking with a focus on life balance and overall health and wellness is proving to have profound and positive impact on the quality of life for millions of people worldwide. In fact, the more connected people are, the healthier they tend to be. Recent studies have repeatedly shown that the number and quality of people's online relationships affects many aspects of well being, including longevity, cancer survival and risks for and recovery from post-traumatic stress disorder, addictions and depression. WellCity intends to play a meaningful role in enabling this phenomenon, and build a successful, high growth business in the process."

Continuing, Bellamy added, "With development of WellCity completed and our near term growth objectives in clear view, we arrived at a point where we understood that our full potential could only be realized by teaming with others who shared our vision and business principles, and also brought to the table certain key complementary strengths and skills that we lacked. In all respects, WellTek represents an ideal fit for WellCity and brings us – among other vital benefits – advanced expertise in capital formation strategies and direct access to the capital markets. We are very pleased to be joining the WellTek family and expect that WellCity will prove to be a significant contributor of growth and value creation for WellTek as we progress our business plan.”

Pursuant to the Stock Purchase Agreement with WellCity, WellTek has acquired a 51% controlling ownership stake in WellCity in a transaction providing for the issuance of 14.5 million restricted shares of WellTek’s common stock. WellCity, Inc., operating as a majority-owned subsidiary of WellTek, will maintain its business operations in Brentwood, Tennessee.
